CONFERENCE IN FOREST BUILDING

Due to the fact that District For ester E. A. Sherman did not return from Nevada until a late hour last evening, the conference between the interior and agricultural officials he government scheduled to be held here yesterday, was postponed until

Mr. Sherman expected to return from his Ely, Nev., trip in the early part of the day yesterday, but he had a long distance to make overland and it required more time than he antici He intended coming home b way of Osceola, Nev., and the Old Horse silver camp, Frisco, of southern Utah, but when he reached Snake Valley, a few miles east of Osceola, he concluded that the better way would be to go by Ely and from there by rail. This took time and, conseently delayed him in his arrival in

The conference has been taken up today in earnest and it is expected that, within the next three days, all the work mapped out by the visiting federal officers can be attended to.

The business of the conference this forenoon consisted largely of looking over the situation in the District No. in a general way. This afternoon the members of the conference will begin to consider certain land claims from different parts of the district. The gentlemen from the national cap-Ital state that their plans have been somewhat modified since their arrival in the western country that the only matters to be considered in this conference will be those pertaining directly to Forest District No. 4.

of the east, where he purchased at much expense a number of the finest and most up-to-date instruments known to the science of optics.

Dr. King was in office practice in Chicago and San Francisco for ten ears. He has just closed a success ul two years' practice in Logan, Utah.

He had intended opening offices in Salt Lake City, but has decided in favor of Ogden, being a beautiful city and, in his estimation, more centrally located and has a brilliant future. Lr. King has opened a handsome suite of offices in the First National

CUT-OFF TO THE COAST

General Superintendent T. F. Row-Fitzgerald, Roadmaster J. Ready, Su isor of Bridges and Buildings M Fisher and Signal Superintendent J. E. Lyons went west this morning in the private car Vellowstone to inspect the Salt Lake division of the Southern Pacific. It is believed that the party will be present tomorrow at the opening of the new California & Nevada

The new stretch of rails between Keeler and Mojave will mean another Southern Pacific route to Los Angeles. The new line branches from the main line at Hazen, Nev., running to Tono-pah Junction. From this junction there is a narrow gauge road extending to Keeler, at which point the new road to be opened tomorrow begins The narrow gauge line is to be converted into a standard gauge, some of the material for the improvement being already on the ground. When the work is completed, through trains will be run between Ogden and Los Angeles over the new line instead of over the coast route.

Harry Myers, charged with disturbing the peace, pleaded guilty before Judge J. D. Murphy this morning, and was fined $5 or five days. The complaining witness was not present. The case against James Cook, charged with having allowed his team to stand on the streets for more than five hours without food and warer, was dismissed, as City Attorney DeVine stated that he could find no evidence to substantiate the charge preferred against the man.

C. F. Ward, who yesterday pleaded not guilty to the churge of drunkenness, apologetically stated to the court this morning that he desired to change his plea to that of guilty. The judge assessed the man a fine of $5 or five days. Ward had intimated that he had been doped and robbed when he was first arraigned, but probably concluded, after a consideration of twenty-four hours, that the "I've been doped" yarn is too effete to have much effect upon the court.

PROGRESS IS SLOW ON

The progress of the work on the new Harriman freight depot is being hampered by the non-arrival of ma-terial, and the force of men employed on the structure has been necessarily reduced as a consequence.

The brick work on the office build-ing has been completed and much of the cornice work also has been fin-ished. The work on the office part of the depot is going steadily along, as the material shortage does not effect the construction of this part of the Corrugated steel, which should have been shipped from east ern plants several weeks ago, has not reached Ogden, and it is this fact which is hindering the work on the depot proper.

While a greater part of the big structure is roofed, the workmen ran out of material before the work was completed, and are still waiting for the steel to arrive.

The doors for the depot receiving and loading department are also due to arrive, but have not made their apbearance, and are another source of

The work on the foundations for the umbrella sheds is nearly completed, and all of the roadways paralleling them have been rolled and are in excellent condition.

The flooring, which is of cement, and the scant woodwork of the freight depot is nearly all completed, and with the arrival of the tardy material the depot will be ready for service.

DEFENSE JEPPESON. CASE

The defendants in the Jeppeson amage suit began the introduction of testimony this morning before Judge Howell, the case having been disturbed the peace and quietude of is neighborhood and was fined $5 or before the court for a number of five days' imprisonment.

The case against John Hassel, the days in the hearing of the testimony given by the plaintiff. The attorneys for the derenuant company state that alleged wife beater, is still hanging fire, but will likely come into court toit is possible that they may conclude the testimony for their side this evening, or early tomorrow forenoon.

Attorney Frank Nebeker, in outlining the defense, stated that the testi-mony introduced by the railroad comoany would show that on February 9, the day after the alleged injury to Miss Jeppeson, the plaintiff signed signed a paper releasing the defendant com-pany from all obligations regarding er injuries, she receiving $50 The attorney also stated that the testimony would show that the plaintiff was rational at the time she signed the release and fully derstood what she was doing; that she did not sign the instrument under any form of duress and that she was not "induced" to sign the same by the claim agent of the defendant comtestimony introduced by the defendant would show that in all likelihood the present condition of the plaintiff not due to any injuries received at the hands of the defendant, at any

Dr. Joyce testified this morning that he saw Miss Jeppeson at the Ogden depot immediately after the collision between the passenger train and the motor car of the Oregon Short Line company, and that she told him she was injured about the chest and face, but did not think the injuries of much consequence. She also told the doctor that she was on her way to Brigham City from Salt Lake to attend the funeral of her sister-in-law and that she was anxious to continue her journey. The doctor stated that the rational and that she appeared to be inderstood fully all that she said and

The witness stated that he afterwards saw the woman in the Ogden nospital and had occasion to visit he medical capacity. He said that at the hospital her pulse and respira-tion were normal and that she showed no symptoms of being badly injured. She was not ill enough to warrant prescribing medicine. Dr. Joyce disagreed from the doc tors for the plaintiff regarding th iffliction which Miss Jeppeson is suffering, he stating that there was no question in his mind but that the plaintiff is suffering from hysteria and that the ailment is sarily incurable. Drs. Gordon and Coulter claimed that Miss Jeppeson is suffering paralysis agitans and thats it cannot be cured. Dr. Joyce stat-ed that the lady has no symptoms of paralysis agitans; that in agitans the patient has a smooth, even, and not excessive tremor and that it always appears in both sides of the body. In hysteria, he said, the tremor Dr. Joyce also stated that Miss Jepp men of high nervous tension.

BACK FROM

The Salt Lake Tribune says: "Will not some well-to-do Utahn, or, he can't hear, will his charming widow emulate the example of Samuel Newhouse, whose big heart and open hand has befriended music in Salt hand has betriended music in Sait Lake? Will not some one of means make a gift of a sum of money—not much—to the University of Utah to help its musical department, just now being established?"

"That is the thought that is uppermost in my mind upon returning. I hope its improprieties will be forgiven. During my absence I have spent much time with the music firms in Paris, London and New York, and have obtained splendid quotations on the instruments and library necessary for the equipment of a musical department in a state university such as ours. The administration of the versity is doing all it can to start the department properly, but its ex-chequer is unable to provide an amount adequate to its needs. desire to begin our department right We are going to do this—that is set-tled. We need badly just a few thousand dollars. We don't want to start off in debt. For any portion of this sum we will perpetuate our gratitude at the state university and through its friends until Gaoriel sounds his trum-

This was Professor Squire Coop's statement upon his return from a European tour Monday. Mr. Coop arrived in New York several days ago, but has spent some time by the wayside on his return to his old home. Continuing, Mr. Coop said:
"The public must be tired of the statement-'glad to be back'-so I will vary it some by saying that I am for-tunate to be back. Besides, this more exactly expresses the truth. There are thousands of Americans detained in Europe, unable to secure passage home, the steamships being overbooked for weeks ahead. Of this number of prosperous Americans who have spent millions there this sum-mer in a vain effort to see Europe, the greater number would be glad to be back. These have not seen Europe in its important distinctions, as it requires something more than leisure and means to do this. At best this class has received but a kaleidoscopic impression, each succeeding picture effacing the previous one.

"They have squandered their money all along the route, from Fishguard to Naples, and across the other way from Cherbourg to Oberammergau, and the inhabitants, from peasant to prince, have picked it up before it stopped spinning. Yet these are not glad to be back because they are tired of spending; this an American never is. The fascinating illusion of a trip abroad is past, that's all, and there remains the desire to get back where one understands and is understood.
All of which sets one to thinking. The American mind is, perhaps, a new, unromanic, irresponsible, myopic mind, while Europe, already old, its people are contemplative, sentimental, far-sighted.

'At Paris I made use of the rare opportunity to see the original production of 'Chantecler' and found i disappointing in the extreme. As had read the book I could not be ac cused of not understanding the piece To my mind Rostand makes the same mistake in 'Chantecler' that Ernest Newman charges to Richard Wagner, namely, unsuitableness to stage. Both masters employ symbolism in order that principles might be treated im personally. Yet Wagner's gods. ants, rhine maidens, dragons and Ros tand's barnyard tribe most certainly turn aside the attention of the au ditors from the lyrical beauties a well as the message of the piece. It would be difficult to find poetry more exalted in style, more lyrically beau-tiful, than 'L'Hymne au Soleil,' but I think it would be quite as impressive without the feathers. Apropos of 'Chantecler,' in Parls Theodore Roose velt is popularly styled 'Le Chante-cler American,' the cock who thinks the sun rises because he crows.

"There is one place on the conti-nent beyond compare. Its name is Normandy. You know its history. No FREIGHT RATES ON wonder that England coveted it and warred for its possession. No where is nature in a gentler, sweeter mood. Nowhere the landscape more graceful, delicate, beautiful. The flowers that grow along its winding lanes and in the hedges separating the fields of wild clover and sarrasin seem to sing you a lullaby. Here of a certainty you can find rest while yet alive. Fo 10,000 francs, the price of a cheap automobile, you can buy a chateau there, with perhaps the ruins of a church centuries old to decorate your back yard, not far from the sea, surrounded by a picturesque peasantry and here you can live like a baron, for a song.

I am very much pleasedto learn of the Democratic victory in Maine. The fact that we elected two out of four congressmen, as well as governor and legislature, gives it a national signifi-canse, which it would not have if it were merely a victory for state offi cers. Taken with the returns from Ver mont, it indicates that the revolagainst the Republican party is a pronounced in the east as in the west and would seem to make it certain that there will be a Democratic majority in the next congress.
